

Aye Write! Book Festival presents the exclusive first performance of the one-woman show

TIMES WHEN I BITE

Written and performed by

Alan Bissett

Author of Boyracers and The Incredible Adam Spark

Fri 13th March

Mitchell Library Theatre £7/£6

Directed by Sacha Kyle

Winner of Arches New Director Award 09

Novelist Alan Bissett takes to the stage to perform his one-woman show, Times When I Bite, a series of monologues from Falkirk's hardest woman, Moira Bell. Whether defending her 'wee snookelums pookelums' from the local rottweiler, attempting to seduce a teacher in the school where she works as a cleaner, or belting out Diana Ross for the Scotia karaoke night, Moira is hilarious and sometimes terrifying company. A thrilling performance from one of Scotland's most exciting young writers.

Copyright (c) Jenny Soep 2008

'He totally inhabits the mind of his characters, with wit and panache and a huge sugar-rush of energy.'

The Scotsman

'Scotland already has plenty of literary heroes, but it's found another in the incredible Alan Bissett.'

Time Out